Ms. Renata Hesse
U.S. Department of Justice, Anti-trust
601 "D" Street NW, Suite 1200
Washington, DC 20530

Ms. Hesse:

I appreciate the chance to comment under the Tunney Act on the settlement that has been proposed to end the Department of Justice's anti-trust suit against Microsoft.

I am in favor of settlement of the suit. I believe the suit should be brought to an end as soon as possible. In my opinion, the case should not have been brought in the first place. The fact that nine states and the Department of Justice have found common ground with Microsoft to settle the case is a very positive development for the entire nation.

It seems to me that the laws governing anti-trust suits are not designed to keep up with a constantly changing industry like high technology. That said, the proposed settlement does reach a solid middle ground that takes measures to ensure competition without over-reaching the role of government regulators.

The settlement is a fair and reasonable way to end this suit. I urge the judge to approve it.

Sincerely,

Victoria Jensen
